NATIONAL DAY OF REMEMBRANCE AND ACTION ON VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

On December 6th, 1989, 14 women were murdered at L'École Polytechnique in a targeted hate crime against women. 33 years later, the McMaster Women in Engineering Society and the Faculty of Engineering remembered and reflected on the victims and their loved ones. 14 roses were laid at the memorial in front of JHE building and the faculty released a video which can be viewed on their Instagram. The McMaster Women in Engineering Society wanted to take the time to acknowledge all those who have been affected by gender-based violence and how Indigenous women and girls are disproportionately affected.
